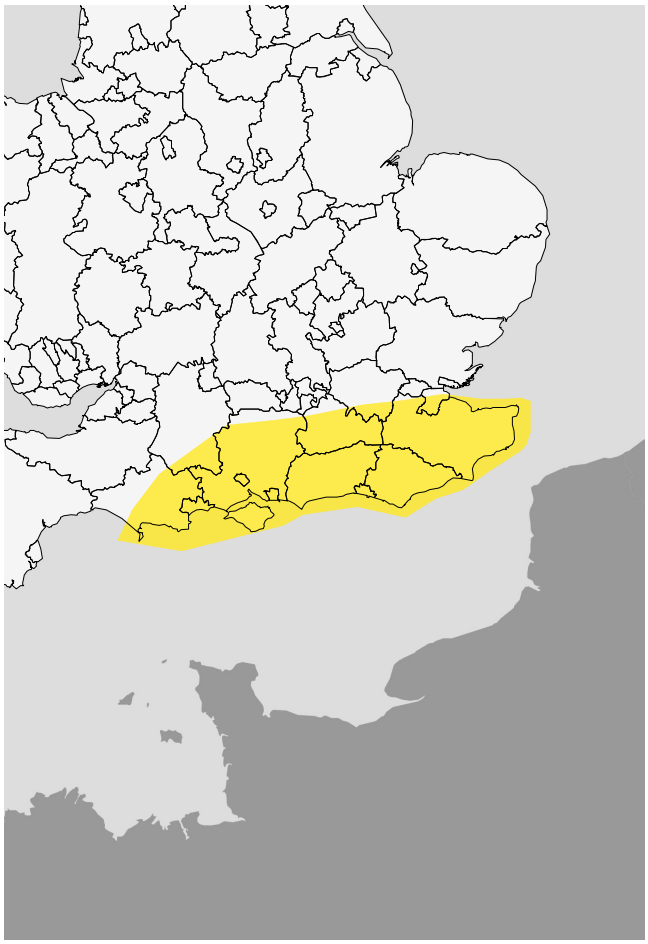
Yellow warning
Rain

Between
05:00 Sat 4 Nov 2023 and
23:59 Sat 4 Nov 2023



Heavy showers falling on saturated ground may cause some disruption and flooding.

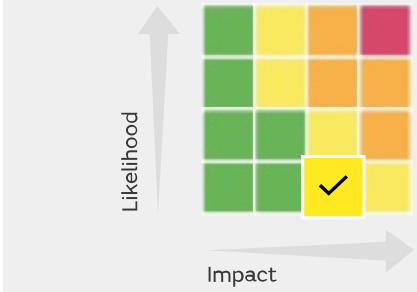
What to expect

- Spray and flooding on roads probably making journey times longer, with road closures possible, mainly in the wetter areas towards the south
- Bus and train services affected with journey times taking longer, with a few possible cancellations
- There is a small chance that homes and businesses could be flooded, causing damage to some buildings
- There is a small chance of deep floodwater in places

Further details

Earlier heavy rain will be followed by fairly frequent heavy and blustery showers this afternoon and evening. A particular focus is likely to develop this evening across some southern coastal areas (within about 20 miles of the coast) from the Isle of Wight, through Sussex and Kent, with heavy downpours and thunderstorms catching some locations.

15-25 mm of rain will fall quite widely, especially towards the south coast, where we may see 30-45 mm by the end of the day in the wettest spots, including hourly totals of around 10 mm. The saturated conditions will increase the risk of flooding and disruption in some locations.



Very low likelihood of medium impacts
